Acknowledgements

The considerable talents and efforts of many individuals helped to assure the success of this endeavor. The City of San Jose, in conjunction with the County of Santa Clara and Applied Survey Research (ASR), would like to thank the many service providers who assisted in the administration of surveys, facilitated the process of homeless peer enumeration by recruiting census workers, and opened the doors of their facilities to host training sessions, deploy census workers, or distribute surveys. The City of San Jose, the County of Santa Clara, and ASR would also like to thank the community volunteers who participated in the Homeless Census and Survey efforts. Finally, the City of San Jose, the County of Santa Clara, and ASR would like to thank the homeless youth census and survey workers, as well as the survey respondents, whose efforts are reflected throughout the findings of this report.

Introduction

In order to gain a better understanding of the current homeless youth population, the City of San Jose worked in conjunction with Applied Survey Research (ASR) to conduct the 2009 City of San Jose Homeless Youth Census and Survey. ASR is a non-profit social research firm based in Santa Cruz County, California, with extensive experience in homeless enumeration and research.

The City of San Jose Homeless Youth Census was conducted in conjunction with the 2009 Santa Clara County Homeless Census.

One of the challenges in homeless census planning is customizing the data collection strategy to address the diversity of people who are homeless. Experience in homeless enumerations has shown that the outreach efforts that best capture the adult street homeless population are typically not successful in capturing the homeless youth experience. Local homeless youth and youth advocates consulted for this study agreed unanimously that homeless youth do not typically co-mingle with homeless adults. Therefore, efforts that are successful in counting and surveying the general homeless population are frequently not effective for homeless youth. Targeted outreach efforts are required in order to count and survey homeless youth.

The City of San Jose Homeless Youth Census and Survey was part of the larger City of San Jose and Santa Clara County Homeless Census and Survey efforts. In addition to the city and countywide enumeration of unsheltered homeless persons on the streets on January 26-27, 2009, and of sheltered homeless persons staying in shelters and institutions on the night of January 26, 2009, a special youth street count was conducted on the afternoon of January 27, from approximately 2:00 p.m. to 6:00 p.m. Special youth enumeration teams consisting of currently homeless youth, formerly homeless youth, and youth service providers enumerated unaccompanied homeless youth in the City of San Jose. The youth teams focused on known congregation areas for youth, which were identified by currently and former youth homeless persons. Sheltered homeless youth were enumerated during the countywide shelter census.

An in-depth 28 question survey was administered in the weeks following the street count to a total of 527 sheltered and unsheltered homeless individuals in the City of San Jose, 114 of whom were youth between the ages of 13-22 years.¹ In complement to the census, a survey was designed to yield qualitative data about the local homeless population, such as causes of homelessness, nighttime accommodations, and health status.

¹ Homeless youth and youth service providers designated 13-22 years as the typical age range for homeless youth social groupings. The youth street census enumerated individuals within this age range. However, the results of the general population street and shelter censuses conducted for HUD do not report the 18-22 "transition-aged youth" subgroup as youth, as HUD defines youth as under 18 years of age. Therefore, the number of transition-aged youth ages 18-22 counted in the general street and shelter censuses is unknown. The survey results presented in this report include both youth under 18 and transition-aged youth 18-22 years of age.

The following table shows the ages of the individuals who were included in the youth category of the homeless youth census and survey findings.

Components	Under 18	18-22

The results presented in this report provide invaluable data regarding the number and characteristics of homeless youth in the City of San Jose, which can help guide City and County efforts to mitigate and end youth homelessness. The census and survey data also help identify likely causes and contributing factors to youth homelessness in the City of San Jose. These data will support evaluation of current strategies, as well as the development of new approaches by the City of San Jose and other organizations within the City as they address youth homelessness within their communities.

Project Purpose and Goals

The 2009 City of San Jose Homeless Youth Census and Survey Project Committee identified several important project goals:

- To increase public awareness of homeless youth issues and generate support for constructive solutions;
- To measure changes in the size and characteristics of the homeless youth population since 2007;
- To improve the ability of policy makers and service providers to plan and implement services that meet the needs of homeless youth;
- To preserve current federal funding for homeless services and to enhance the ability to raise new funds.

The results of this research will assist service providers, policy makers, funders, and local, state, and federal governments to better understand and plan for the needs of the homeless youth

The Homeless Youth Census and Survey will help policy makers and service providers more effectively develop outreach efforts and programs to serve the City's homeless youth population. population. It is hoped that the 2009 City of San Jose Homeless Youth Census and Survey will help policy makers and service providers to more effectively develop outreach efforts and programs to serve the City's homeless youth population.

The data presented in this report provide an update on homeless youth in the City of San Jose. Due to similarities in research methodologies, comparisons to the 2007 City of San Jose Homeless Census and Survey results are provided.

Homeless Youth Recruitment and Training

In order to more accurately profile homeless youth in the City of San Jose, a special youth outreach plan was developed for the census and survey, in conjunction with local youth advocates. The plan had the following key elements:

- Identification of known congregation areas for youth to be enumerated during the census,
- Recruitment and trainings of homeless youth to work on the census and survey,
- Conducting the youth census in the late afternoon to optimize finding local youth,
- Use of youth-only (no adult partner) teams to enumerate homeless youth
- Use of youth interviewers to survey homeless youth,
- Supervision of youth census and survey workers by youth advocates, and
- Analysis of homeless youth census data to avoid duplication of the morning countywide census.

The Bill Wilson Drop-In Center (BWC) of San Jose was the key partner in the homeless youth census and survey for the City of San Jose. In order to meet the data collection standards of the project, twelve youth were trained by ASR and BWC staff at a 90 minute orientation for the census, all of whom participated in census activities. This included youth who lived in and knew the San Jose area. Community and agency volunteers were assigned to drive the youth enumeration teams to pre-identified congregation areas to enumerate homeless youth.

For the survey component of this project, a team of eight interviewers was developed. The team was trained in survey administration and quota management. The enthusiasm of these youth interviewers was excellent and their cooperation was outstanding.

Executive Summary

The Number of Homeless Youth in the City of San Jose

- ✓ The overall homeless youth population (under age 23) of the City of San Jose enumerated in the 2009 point-in-time count was 373 people.
- ✓ Of those youth, 165 unsheltered homeless youth were enumerated in the City of San Jose.²
- 208 sheltered homeless youth were counted in emergency shelters and transitional housing facilities.³
- ✓ No additional youth were counted in institutional settings that are not recognized by HUD for the point-in-time count, such as residential rehabilitation facilities, hospitals, or jails.

¹ The shelter enumeration captured the number of youth under 18 years old, but the number of individuals 18-22 years of age was included in the adult category and is not included here.

A Profile of Homeless Youth

Since general homeless census and survey efforts significantly under-represent homeless youth, the City of San Jose and the research team designed a targeted outreach effort to count and survey unaccompanied homeless youth throughout the County. Using the above major data components and the results of 114 surveys of homeless youth under the age of 23 administered by youth advocates and trained peer interviewers, ASR generated detailed demographic and lifestyle profiles of homeless youth in the City of San Jose.

✓ 79% of youth respondents indicated that they were living in Santa Clara County at the time they became homeless.

✓ 40% of youth respondents under the age of 23 indicated that they lived alone without family, a partner, or friends, compared to 59% of adult respondents ages 23 and older.

 $^{^{2}}$ For the purposes of this study, the HUD definition of an unsheltered homeless person was used: someone who is either living on the streets, or in a vehicle, encampment, abandoned building, garage, or any other place not normally used or meant for human habitation.

³ The shelter enumeration captured the number of youth under 18 years old, but the number of individuals 18-22 years of age was included in the adult category and is not included here.

- The most commonly cited nighttime accommodation for youth respondents was with family and friends (21%), compared to 8% of adult respondents who reported the same.
- 74% of youth respondents indicated that they had been homeless for six months or less, compared to 34% of adult respondents.
- 23% of youth respondents reported that their primary cause of homelessness was an argument with a family or friend in which they were asked to leave. This is compared to 6% of adult respondents who reported the same.
- 21% cited the loss of a job as the primary reason they became homeless.
- ✓ 15% of youth survey respondents reported that their alcohol or drug issue was the primary cause of their homelessness.
- 71% of youth respondents were not receiving any government assistance, compared to 49% of adult respondents.
- ✓ A greater percentage of youth respondents cited the need for education as a barrier to employment (37%), compared to adult respondents (26%).
- ✓ A smaller percentage of youth respondents indicated that they usually get enough to eat on a daily basis (58%), compared to adult respondents (63%).
- ✓ Greater percentages of adult respondents than youth respondents were experiencing alcohol abuse (43% compared to 27%, respectively), drug abuse (42% compared to 25%), and depression (46% compared to 32%).

Summary

The point-in-time street and shelter enumerations identified 373 homeless youth under the age of 23 in the City of San Jose. Over half (56%) of those enumerated during the count were sheltered, while 44% were unsheltered. As noted previously, the general street and shelter census efforts did not capture the number of individuals 18-22 years of age. Those transition-aged youth were counted as adults. Therefore, this count should be considered conservative since it is well known that even with the most thorough methodology, many homeless individuals stay in locations where they cannot be seen or counted by enumeration teams. Since 2007, the overall homeless youth population decreased by 7% (representing a decrease of 27 youth). Within the context of this overall decrease, the number of homeless youth in emergency shelters and transitional housing programs decreased by 13%, while the number of unsheltered homeless youth increased by 3%.

The 2009 City of San Jose Homeless Youth Census and Survey revealed a diverse youth population with many different needs. However, a typical homeless profile can be constructed based on survey results. The largest percentage of respondents were Hispanic/Latino (30%), followed by White/Caucasian (28%), other/multi-ethnic (20%), and Black/African American (16%). Sixty-one percent (61%) of youth respondents were male, 35% were female, and 4% were transgendered. The homeless survey revealed that the typical homeless youth was living in Santa Clara County at the time they became homeless (79%), had been homeless for six months or less (74%), and was not receiving any government assistance (71%). A large majority (85%) of youth survey respondents stated that they were currently unemployed. Forty-two percent (42%) of youth respondents indicated that they do not, or sometimes do not have enough to eat on a daily basis.

Additionally, 32% of youth survey respondents reported that they were currently experiencing depression. Twenty-seven percent (27%) of youth survey respondents reported that they were experiencing alcohol abuse and 25% were experiencing drug abuse, highlighting the critical importance of integrated support services.

Key causes of homelessness included economic factors such as job loss or unemployment as well as social problems with family and friends. Twenty-three percent (23%) of homeless youth respondents said that an argument with family or friends which resulted in them being asked to leave the house was the primary cause of their homelessness. Twenty-one percent (21%) cited the loss of a job as the primary reason they became homeless. Fifteen percent (15%) of youth survey respondents reported that their alcohol or drug issue was the primary cause of their homelessness.

Homeless Youth Census Findings

The 2009 City of San Jose Homeless Youth Census and Survey provides invaluable data regarding the number and characteristics of the City's homeless youth population. In this study, the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development's (HUD's) definition of homelessness – taken from Title 42, Chapter 119, Subchapter I, §10302(a) of the U.S. Code of Federal Regulations based on the McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance Act – was used. The definition is:

- An individual who lacks a fixed, regular and adequate nighttime residence, and
- An individual who has a primary nighttime residence that is:
 - A supervised publicly or privately operated shelter designed to provide temporary living accommodations (including welfare hotels, congregate shelters, and transitional housing for the mentally ill), or
 - An institution that provides a temporary residence for individuals intended to be institutionalized, or
 - A public or private place not designated for, or ordinarily used as, a regular sleeping accommodation for human beings.

Certain homeless persons are excluded from this definition, including:

- Unsheltered homeless persons who were "doubled-up" in the homes of family or friends;
- Sheltered homeless persons in jails, hospitals, and rehabilitation facilities; and
- Homeless youth who were living in rehabilitation facilities or hospitals as a result of their parent's illness.

For the purposes of this study, the youth discussed in this report are under the age of 23. While HUD defines youth as under 18, local youth and service providers use a broader definition, which includes transition-aged youth. The homeless youth age cohort in the City of San Jose appears is generally those 13-22 years old. While those 18-22 are older than those HUD defines as "youth," local homeless youth, youth service providers, and the City of San Jose agreed upon this definition as the most useful for understanding the homeless youth experience in the City of San Jose. While homeless transition-aged youth ages 18-22 were enumerated during the special youth street census, the number of individuals ages 18-22 enumerated during the general street census and shelter census is unknown as they were included in the adult population ages 18 and older, in accordance with HUD reporting requirements. Therefore, the results presented in this report are very likely an undercount as the only youth ages 18-22 included in this total were the ones enumerated during the youth street census.

As part of the city and countywide homeless census, which was conducted in the early morning hours of January 26-27, 2009, two-person teams were created to enumerate homeless individuals (including youth) in designated areas of the County. Compared to the city and countywide street census results, the youth teams found considerably more homeless youth, in locations different from where unaccompanied youth were found in the morning effort. Due to the differences in the findings and the infrequent co-mingling of adult and youth homeless persons, the research team felt there was little worry of duplication. The youth enumerated by these special teams were assigned tract locations post-facto and were included in the overall citywide enumeration results.

The following census findings include the number of youth (ages 18-22) enumerated during the youth street census and the youth (under 18) counted during the general street and shelter enumerations. The results include both unaccompanied youth and youth in families.

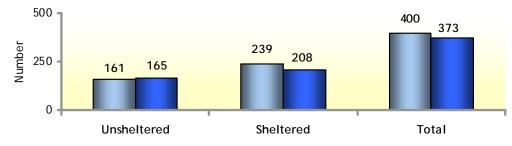

For a detailed explanation of the methodology used for the general citywide homeless study, please refer to Appendix I of the 2009 City of Jose Homeless Census and Survey report. A copy of the youth census instrument can be found in Appendix I of this report. For a list of definitions of terms used in this report, please see Appendix IV.

✓ A total of 373 homeless youth ages 22 and younger were counted in the City of San Jose.

- Of the homeless youth counted, more than half (56%) were sheltered (208 youth).
- Forty-four percent (44%) were unsheltered (165 youth).
- No additional youth were counted in institutional settings that are not recognized by HUD for the point-in-time count, such as residential rehabilitation facilities, hospitals, or jails.

Between 2007 and 2009, the total number of homeless youth enumerated during the pointin-time count decreased by 7%, from 400 to 373 youth.

Street Census Findings

The youth street count was conducted in addition to the general homeless street count to enumerate unaccompanied homeless youth. In discussions with the homeless youth census planning team and youth advocates, it was determined that the youth component of the street census would occur on the afternoon of January 27, 2009. The planning team agreed that a daybreak enumeration would not be effective in finding most homeless youth and that the late afternoon (after school hours to early evening) would be the best time to deploy the youth teams. From the deployment site at the Bill Wilson Drop-in Center, volunteer and agency drivers shuttled youth teams to malls, parks, downtown areas, encampment areas, abandoned buildings, and other outdoor locations to count unaccompanied homeless youth.

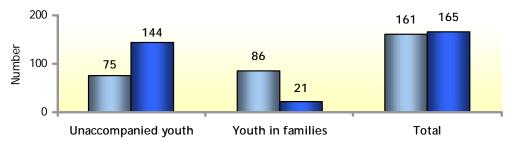

Youth census teams were asked to identify homeless youth and categorize them to the best of their ability in age categories under the age of 18 and 18-22. The homeless youth enumerators were confident in their abilities to differentiate homeless youth from the general youth population. All youth involved in the planning agreed with the definition of the homeless youth age cohort in the City of San Jose as 13-22 years old. It was also noted that this cohort does not commonly co-mingle with the adult homeless population and the likelihood of duplicate counting was minimal due to the lack of youth and adult socialization. This was partially confirmed by the fact that the general daybreak census yielded only 6 unaccompanied homeless youth under 18 while the afternoon Census found 31 unaccompanied homeless youth under the age of 18. Duplicate counting, therefore, was determined not to be an issue.

Our youth enumerators were all confident based on their firsthand knowledge of the habits of local homeless youth that the youth between the ages of 18-22 identified in the youth census would not have been seen in a daybreak count. The research team felt that while duplication was possible for transition-aged youth (ages 18-22) found in the youth census, it was unlikely to be significant. Although there was no method available to confirm, the research team believes that the 107 transition-aged youth enumerated in the youth cohort were not counted in the daybreak general census.

✓ From 2007 to 2009, the total number of homeless youth ages 22 and younger enumerated on the streets remained nearly the same.⁴

Source: Applied Survey Research, 2009 City of San Jose Homeless Census, 2009.

The largest percentage (45%) of youth enumerated on the street were male youth between 18-22 years of age. The second and third largest groups were female youth ages 18-22 (18%) and youth of undetermined gender under 18 (16%).

Gender and Age	Number	Percent
Male youth under 18	16	9.7%
Male youth 18-22	74	44.8%
Female youth under 18	15	9.1%
Female youth 18-22	30	18.2%
Undetermined youth under 18	27	16.4%
Undetermined youth 18-22	3	1.8%
Total	165	100.0%

Note: 2007 data not available by gender and age, therefore a comparison is not available.

⁴ This includes unsheltered youth under the age of 18 enumerated during the general street census effort as well.

Shelter Census Findings

In addition to the count of unsheltered homeless youth, the number of homeless youth housed in shelter facilities and institutions was captured during the overall Santa Clara County Shelter and Institution (S&I) Count. Agencies that temporarily shelter and house homeless people were asked to provide a count of the number of homeless persons housed in their programs on the night of January 26, 2009. The following table provides an overview of the findings generated from the S&I Count. While the number of unaccompanied and accompanied homeless youth under the age of 18 is reported, the number of transition-aged youth between the ages of 18-22 is unknown as they were included in the adult population in the shelter and institution count in accordance with HUD reporting requirements. Therefore, the following section includes only homeless youth under the age of 18 years.

✓ A total of 208 homeless youth under 18 years old were enumerated in Emergency Shelters and Transitional Housing facilities. This represents a 13% decrease from 239 youth enumerated in shelters in 2007.

Homeless Youth Survey Findings

The following section provides an overview of the results of surveys of homeless youth (ages 13-22) in the City of San Jose. Currently and formerly homeless youth were trained to administer the survey and were instructed to specifically target homeless youth under 23 years old. Surveys captured the birth date of respondents to enable categorization by age group in the analysis. Interviewers were trained to follow a standard random respondent selection protocol in which every 3rd homeless youth encountered was approached to participate in the survey. A $5.00 value response incentive was offered to respondents and greatly enhanced participation.

In this youth survey findings section, comparisons between 2007 and 2009 are provided for key lifestyle survey questions. Based on the 2007 point-in-time estimate of 400 homeless youth under the age of 23, the 65 homeless youth surveys administered in 2007 represent a confidence interval of +/- 11% with a 95% confidence level when generalizing the survey results to the estimated homeless youth population in the City of San Jose. In order to improve this margin of error, special attempts were made in 2009 to increase the survey sample size of homeless youth under the age of 23 for an improved representation of the homeless youth population. In 2009, a total of 114 surveys were administered to homeless youth 13-22 years of age, representing a confidence interval of +/- 8% with a 95% confidence level when generalizing the survey results to the estimated 373 homeless youth in the City of San Jose. This demonstrates the improved survey sampling of homeless youth in 2009, resulting in the better representation of the homeless youth population. Nevertheless, due to the higher margin of error for 2007, caution should be used when comparing the data for these two years.

The following section highlights the results of surveys administered to homeless youth ages 13-22. Please note that this includes surveys conducted by adult homeless interviewers during the general survey effort as well. A comparative analysis was performed reviewing the results of youth between the ages of 13-22 and adults ages 23 and older. This analysis was illuminating, clearly showing how the homeless youth experience differs from the homeless adult population. Because the overall survey results have been differentiated into different age categories, the adult results presented in this section are different than the general results presented in the City of San Jose Homeless Census and Survey report. Please note that missing values have been intentionally omitted from the survey results, and all survey results display valid percentages only. Therefore, the total number of respondents for each question will not necessarily equal the total number of surveys.

A complete review of all youth survey responses can be found in Appendix III of this report. In addition, a copy of the survey instrument can be found in Appendix II of this report. For a detailed explanation of the methodology used for the general citywide homeless study, please refer to Appendix I of the 2009 City of Jose Homeless Census and Survey report.

The following survey results are discussed based on the following age categories.

Category	Age Group
Youth respondents	13-22 years
Adult respondents	23 years and older

Demographics

Age, Gender, and Ethnicity

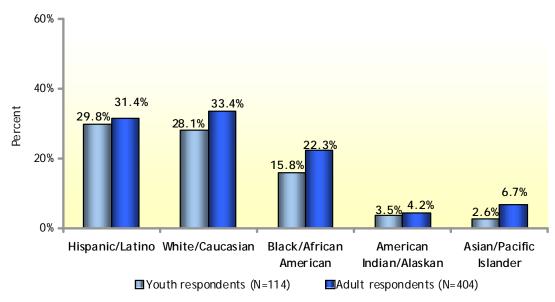

✓ 51% of youth respondents were between the ages of 13-17 years old, while 49% were between 18-22 years old.

The majority of youth and adult respondents were male (61% and 72%, respectively), followed by female (35% and 27%), and transgendered (4% and 1%).

• There are higher percentages of females and transgendered homeless youth than homeless adults, and a lower percentage of homeless male youth than homeless adults.

The largest percentage of youth respondents were Hispanic/Latino (30%), followed by White/Caucasian (28%). In comparison, the largest percentage of adult respondents were White/Caucasian (33%), followed by Hispanic/Latino (31%).

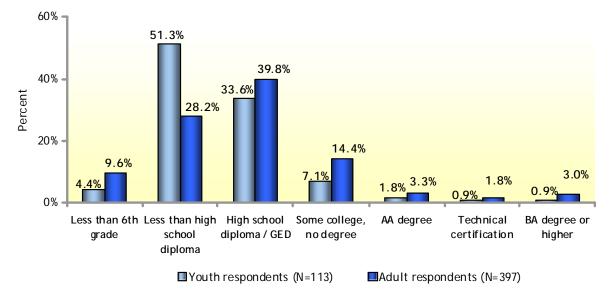

Educational Attainment

- When asked about their highest level of education, more than half (56%) of youth respondents indicated that they do not have a high school diploma, compared to 38% of adults.
- 34% of youth respondents indicated that they had a high school diploma/GED as their highest level of education. This is compared to 40% of adult respondents.

Source: Applied Survey Research, 2009 City of San Jose Homeless Survey, 2009.

Living Status

 A smaller percentage of youth respondents indicated that they lived alone (40%), compared to adult respondents (59%).

 Of those who did not live alone, a greater percentage of youth respondents, compared to adult respondents, were living with friends (47% From 2007 to 2009, the percentage of youth respondents who indicated that they lived alone increased from 35% to 40%.

compared to 31%, respectively), other family members (13% compared to 8%), and a parent/legal guardian (9% compared to 1%).⁵

19% of both youth and adult respondents were living with minor children.

⁵ These responses were not mutually exclusive.

Profiles of Homelessness

Usual Nighttime Accommodations

The most commonly cited nighttime accommodation for homeless youth respondents was an emergency shelter, transitional housing facility, or another type of shelter (31%). Thirtysix percent (36%) of adult respondents indicated the same.

 Greater percentages of youth respondents than adult respondents indicated usually staying with family or friends (21% compared to 8%, respectively), in a structure or indoor area not normally used for sleeping (15% compared to 8%), and in a motel or hotel (12% compared to 3%).

Conclusion

The 2009 City of San Jose Homeless Youth Census and Survey was performed using HUDrecommended practices for counting homeless persons. This important effort provided valid and useful data regarding the homeless youth population in the City of San Jose. The 2009 enumeration built upon the 2007 effort and began the compilation of comparable multi-year data on the experience of homeless youth in the City of San Jose. Continued use of this methodology will enable the tracking of key indicators and gauge the changing conditions experienced by homeless youth throughout the City.

It is hoped that the data presented in this report will be used by the planning bodies of the City of San Jose and other organizations within the community to inform additional outreach, service planning, and policy decision-making over the next two years as they continue to address youth homelessness. It is also hoped that this report will be disseminated to other jurisdictions and educational research institutions in order to gain feedback on the methodologies used and results obtained for the 2009 City of San Jose Homeless Youth Census and Survey. By sharing and evaluating this enumeration effort and its results, the homeless youth support network in the City of San Jose will be better able to produce constructive and innovative solutions to a problem that clearly affects many youth in the community.

Appendix IV: Definitions and Abbreviations

Chronic homelessness is defined by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, and the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs as "an unaccompanied homeless individual with a disabling condition who has either been continuously homeless for a year or more, or has had at least four episodes of homelessness in the past three years."

Disabling condition, for the purposes of this study, is defined as a physical disability, mental illness, depression, alcohol or drug abuse, chronic health problems, HIV/AIDS, Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD), or developmental disability.

Emergency shelter is the provision of a safe alternative to the streets, either in a shelter facility or through the use of motel vouchers. Emergency shelter is short-term, usually for 30 days or less. Domestic violence shelters are typically considered a type of emergency shelter, as they provide safe, immediate housing for victims and their children.

Family is defined by HUD as either an adult couple or a single adult with one or more minor children present.

Homeless persons, according to the Stewart B. McKinney Act of 1987, are people who lack a fixed, regular, and adequate nighttime residence, and have a primary nighttime residence that is either a public or private shelter, an institution that provides temporary residence for individuals intended to be institutionalized, or a public or private location that is not designed for, or ordinarily used as, a regular sleeping accommodation for human beings.

HUD - United States Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Sheltered homeless persons are those homeless persons who are living in emergency shelters or transitional housing programs.

Single individual refers to an unaccompanied adult or youth.

Transition-aged youth are individuals 18 to 22 years of age. Although defined as adults by HUD, these individuals are considered part of the youth homeless cohort by the local youth homeless population and youth homeless service providers.

Transitional housing facilitates the movement of homeless individuals and families to permanent housing. It is housing in which homeless persons may live up to 24 months and receive supportive services that enable them to live more independently. Supportive services – which help promote residential stability, increased skill level or income, and greater self-determination – may be provided by the organization managing the housing, or coordinated by that organization and provided by other public or private agencies. Transitional housing can be provided in one structure or several structures at one site, or in multiple structures at scattered sites.

Unsheltered homeless persons are those homeless persons who are living on the streets, in abandoned buildings, storage structures, vehicles, encampments, or any other place unfit for human habitation.

Youth, for the purposes of this report, are defined as individuals 13 to 22 years of age.
